Dressing Up

Turn yourself into a film character

Activity

1. Set up a background for your shots. This could be a chair or a window - something that is interesting but without too much going on.
2. Now put on some of the clothes and look at yourself in the mirror. Think about what sort of character you look like. Give your character a name and think about what genre of film you might be in.
3. Turn into your character by pulling a face and striking a suitable pose.
4. Ask your assistant to take a close up portrait photo.

Portrait means this way:

5. When you have taken all your photos and either had them developed or uploaded onto a computer, create a display with the best images.

What next?

Why not write a storyline for your dressing up character?
